First Nations connection

We respect the privacy of people when they give us information about their special places such as hunting and berry picking.

We gather information in many ways: by written submissions, by talking with people, and by listening to stories. Traditional Knowledge is also a vital part of our assessments.

When doing an assessment, we consider traditional Knowledge, local knowledge and traditional land use.

YESAB’s process is about the people, the land and resources.

We consider your and your government’s input as an important part of our process.
